

CHARLES GALLOWAY

3459 HALLIDAY AVENUE

ST. LOUIS

January 7 1922

Dear Mr. Pommer:

I reproach myself for failing to respond to your good letter of December 18 long before now; but I am so given to procrastination when it comes to the writing of a letter. Then, too, during the holidays my different activities certainly keep me on the go. It is fine to be busy, but at times I feel that I am just a little too busy. Quite a number of years ago I came to the conclusion that, for several reasons, I might just as well give up all hope of ever amounting to anything much as a composer. Composition is fascinating, I well know; but I cannot believe that it was ever meant for Charles Galloway to compose. All of which explains my not sending you anything for your wife's musicale on February 8. But I appreciate your remembrance of me; and you may rest assured that I often think of you. Again thanking you for your letter--I was so glad to hear from you--and with my and my wife's best greetings to you and Mrs. Pommer;

Cordially,

Charles Galloway.
