

WOLLE AT ST. LOUIS.

Will Have His Place at the Biggest Organ in the World.

Some of the most famous organists of the world have been engaged for recitals at the World's Fair at St. Louis, Mo. Among these is J. Fred. Woole, of Bethlehem, conductor of the Bach Choir and organist of the old Moravian Church since 1885.

The recitals will be given in Festival Hall, seating 4,000 people. The hall occupies the center of the exposition, the Terrace of States. The organ to be used is the largest and most perfect on earth. It has twelve more stops than the next largest organ, which is in Town Hall, at Sydney, Australia. Electric power supplies the air and a movable key desk enables the organist to come close to his audience at the front of the stage.

The organ recitals will extend through the entire seven months of the exposition. The great instrument will be dedicated at the opening of the exposition by Charles Galloway, of St. Louis, the official organist, who will do all the service playing for the exposition.
