

ORGANISTS TO GIVE FREE RECITALS AT CONVENTION HERE

Prominent Musicians on Programs at Meeting Which Opens Monday.

When the National Association of Organists holds its twentieth annual convention in St. Louis from Monday through Friday, an elaborate program of recitals by prominent organists will be given to which the public is invited.

Charles Galloway, organist of St. Peters Church, St. Louis, will give a recital at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the Graham Memorial Chapel of Washington University.

In Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets at 8 p. m., Tuesday, Arnold Dann of Pasadena, Calif., will play.

Wednesday at 8 p. m. Arthur Davis of Christ Church Cathedral will give an all-American program at the United Hebrew Temple, 225 South Skinker road.

Harry Goss-Custard, organist of Liverpool Cathedral, England, will give a recital at 8 p. m. Thursday at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3627 Lindell boulevard. He will also give an illustrated lecture Friday night at the Chase Hotel on "Liverpool Cathedral and Its Organ."

The final recital will be at 3 p. m. Friday when Rollo Maitland of Philadelphia will play at the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards.

Earnest Douglas of Los Angeles will play his composition which was accorded first place among the organ compositions of the year Wednesday following Davis' recital.

Visiting organists and members of the association will witness a performance of "Tales of Hoffman" at the Municipal Opera, Forest Park, Thursday.

Addresses of welcome will be given Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. in Hotel Chase by Mayor Miller, Walter E. Wismar, dean of the St. Louis Council and Dr. Percy B. Eversden, president of the Missouri State Council. Reginald A. McAll of New York, national president, will give the response. The business sessions will be held in the Chase.
